HONGRONG, FEBRUARY 21st, 1911.

THE latest news from Peking is by no means reassuring. If the actual reply of the Chinese Government to the Russian Note corresponds with the forecast telegraphed by our Peking correspondent, as well as by Reuter, there will be little prospect of an immediate settlement of the dispute. China admits what indeed cannot be questioned, that the Treaty of 1881 gives Russia certain extra-territorial rights in Mongolia, and the whole dispute appears to resolve itself into a question as to whether Russia is attempting to take an ell where she is entitled to only an inch. That being so, it of small-pox were notified. One of the latter cannot severely tax the ability of an arbitra. pro ed fatal. tion tribunal to test the validity of Russia's demands. According to the forecast of China's reply, she will refer to the Treaty as "ambiguous." So far as the English translation allows us to judge, there appears to be little that is ambiguous. The real explanation of the trouble would appear to be, that since Russian aggression was effectually stopped in the Extreme East, t'e Empire-builders of Russia have concentrated their attention upon the development of rights long ago acquired in the region of Mongolia. Thirty years have past since the Treaty concerned in this dispute was concluded; yet the trouble appears to be of quite recent origin, and the inference is that Russia is now showing greater activity

If Russia is bent upon developing her in-that she would be ready to consent to a from Russia. The news that orders have connect with it the reports which were reaching St. Petersburg last month of

"alarming indications of warlike preparamodern fortifications, manned by regular troops. The Committee recommend far more stringent regulations against the enormous influx of Chinese into the Amur region.

They went off, but did not return, and when the prisoner was taken to the Central Station and the basket opened it was found to contain cocaine. Mr. Tratman, superintendent of imports and exports, stated that the wholesale price of cocaine was $6 an ounce.

THE RUSSO-CHINESE RUPTURE.

CHINA'S REPLY.

PEKING, February 19th. China replies to-morrow formally to Russia's six points.

It is understood that China does not admit the grounds of complaint as regards the alleged interference with tariff autonomy.

China admits:

(1) Extra-territoriality.

(2) The right of direct but not of indirect taxation.

(3) The right to establish Russian Consulates when they are commercially warranted, which is not yet.

(4) The right to acquire land and to erect buildings.

In conclusion, China adheres to the principles of the Treaty, but does not agree to its expansion, and remains conciliatory while profoundly regretting the sudden change in Russia's policy, which, the Note says, does not harmonise with the past A Chinese was placed before Mr. Hallifax friendly relations of the two Powers who should welcome the revision of an ambiguous Treaty, especially in view of the material changes in Russian railway and other developments wrought since 1881.

Reuter sends a telegram in similar terms. [REUTER'S SERVICE TO THE "HONGKONG Brighter and funnier than ever, was the verdict of the large house which enjoyed the change of programme submitted last night by this talented company of artistes. The music was of the same high standard as before, and the "business" was of that original and whimsical character which lends such a charm to ( 'e entertainments supplied by "The Follies."

THE FOLLIES,

The artistes have one and all established themselves in the good graces of the public and the appearance of each is heartily greeted while his or her performance is enthusiastically applauded and encored. Cissie Harcourt, who sang "Sante Fe," had to re-appear. Reginald Mountfield in his experiences with "Yankee doodle" was very clever and had to come on the stage again and tell some of his funny stories, while Nellie Webber added to her popularity by a sweet rendering of "Hope on Hope ever." Then came the amusing English gles said to be saved from the fire of London in 1745, followed by Clifton Yates' artistic singing of "The Jolly Old Cavalier." "Over the garden wall," a dust by Nellie Webber and Fred Daniels was greatly appreciated, as well as the aeroplane song, and Marie Mansfield in her impersonations of famous acters and actresses scored a distinct success. The Nicotine Quartettes in their effective settings formed a fine conclusion to the first part of the hygiene. As a matter of "fact, the word programme. The second was devoted to the "hygiene" is becoming a kind of shibboleth on burlesque of a pantomime, which was most mirth-provoking and kept the audience in roars of laughter from beginning to end.

The nuisance of so many people coming in late was particularly acute last night, and it is to be hoped that the nightly offenders will have some consideration for others and endeavour to amend their ways in this respect.

The Attorney-General, who was instructed by Mr. H. L. Dennys, from the office of the Crown Solicitor, said he was prepared to accept that plea. The accused pleaded guilty on each of the charges of embezziement, but not guilty to the attering. That was the position he had taken up throughout, and the Attorney-General was prepared to accept the plea. He did not know whether his Lordship would like to read the depositions.

Tse Ngau was indicted on a charge of kidnap-Prisoner, in pleading not guilty, stated that he took the child out to drink ten.

The following gentlemen were sworn in as jurors: - Messrs. J. W. Taylor (foreman), W.

L. Wesser, J. M. Wong, W. H. L. Warrener, J. H. Underwood, G. Rudow and W. Nicholson. The Attorney-General informed the Court and

jury that this was one of the very numerous cases of kidnapping which were so rife in the Colony at present. The prisoner was charged with taking away a five-year-old boy from the possession of his mother with intent to deprive her of the ownerwanting in cleanliness to pay a sum of money ship of the child. Accused lodged at No. 8. Second Street, in the same house as the mother of the child. The mother would say that at 12:30 p.m. on the afternoon of January 10th the prisoner told her that he was going to take the child out to tea. After being away for sometime, as the prisoner did not return, the mother got anxious and sent her sister-in-law to look for the child. The sister-in-law proceeded to the Macso boat and found the prisoner on board with the child. The rrisoner showed her where the child was sitting eating peanuts and cakes, which had presumedly been supplied by the prisoner. The sister-in-law took charge of the child, and gave the prisoner into oustody.

After hearing the evidence the jury, without retiring, brought in a unanimous verdict of guilty, and his Lordship sentenced the prisoner to four years' imprisonment with hard labour.

The master of the shop would say there were five men in the shop, kidnapping. and while four took part in the process of gagging him, the other one proceeded to gag his foki. Some of the men produced a revolver in fact a good deal of the general stock-in-trade of the burglar. As a matter of fact, nothing was stolen, although the owner had $1,000 in the shop. From information received the prisoner was arrested on the following day on the first floor of 30. Lei Yuen, and in a box in a cubicle was found a sheath which fitted the sword left behind in the house of the prosecutor, and some gags. An identification was held at the prison on January 31st, when both the presecutor and his foki picked out the prisoner as being one of the men engaged on the attempted robbery. It was purely a question of identification for the jury. Evidence was then taken.

The jury, after a short retirement, recorded an unanimous verdict of guilty.

The Attorney-General stated that before his Lordship passed sentence ha proposed to try the prisoner with another man on a precisely similar charge.

His Lordship-I don't think he should be tried before the same jury. The case must go before the other Court. If there was question of identity this jury, being satisfied once, might be satisfied a second time.

was a very simple one. The prisoner was before the Court on a charge of attempted arson of a fish-curer's shop at Mongkoktsui on January jurers tried the case.

His Lordship-It is a specific offence. It is not an attempt.

The Attorney-General agreed that it was a specific offence, but stated that the indictment had been framed from Archbald. Proceeding, he informed the jury that it would be proved that the accused set fire to certain baskets which were leaning against the sked mentioned. Therefore the case for the prosecution was that he was equally as guilty as if he had set fire to the shed.

His Lordship suggested that the indictment should be amended.

The Attorney-General agreed, and on prosoner being again asked to plead be pleaded His Lordship—Let me know the facts.

The Attorney-General stated that at about two o'clock in the morning the prisoner tried to force the door of a shed in which a fish-ourer was sleeping. He called to the man to open the door, the man refused, and the prisoner set fire to some backets which were leaning up against the shop. The accused was seen to strike eleven or twelve matches before being arrested by a constable who watched him. The owner of the shed then came out and put out the fire. A SERIOUS CASE. Ip Yau pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob.

His Lordship sentenced the prisoner to fourteen years' hard labour and two whippings of twelve strokes each, and remarked that the case was a very serious one. If the prisoner had not been disturbed, he would in all probability have killed the woman.

ALLEGED ATTEMPTED ARMED ROBBERY. Ng San and Cheng Wai were arraigned on a charge of robbery.

Hon Mr. W. Rees Davies, K.C., Attorney-General, instructed by Mr. H. L. Dennys, Sr., appeared for the Crown, and prisoners were undefended.

The Attorney-General said the prisoners were charged with attempted armed robbery, which was a class of offence which unfortunately at the present time was extremely common, and from the records of the Court appeared to be increasing at every Sessions. However, the jury had only to deal with the prisoners before them and to say, in their opinion, whether they were guilty or not. Prisoners, with others, went to a shop in Wing Long Street and asked that the door be opened as someone wanted to pay some money. The cook opened the door and three mon entered the house. Two clutched hold of the accountant and threatened him with a royolver. The cook went to the window and blew a police whistle, Fortunately there was a Chinese constable at the foot of the stairs when the three men ran down. The first prisoner displayed a diplomacy that was almost humorous, because when he got outside he represented himself to be one of the fokis and actually helped the Chinese constable to arrest the second prisoner, whereas he was the chief actor in the play. The second prisoner was not going to be done, and in ordinary parlance he gave the show away. He gave such information to the police as caused the arrest of the first prisoner. On the stairs were found pieces of wire, gags, pepper, knives and all the usual implements of a burglar's stock-in-trade, while when the first prisoner was arrested in his house there were a number of articles used for

The seventeenth ordinary meeting of shareholders in the Losu Kung Mow Cotton Spinning and Weaving Co., Ltd., was held last week at the offices of the General Managers, Messra. Hibert & Co., Shanghai, Mr. E. C. Pearce

The CHAIRMAN said :- Gentlemen,-The report and accounts having been in your hands for some little time, we will, with your permission, adopt the usual procedure and take them as read. In reviewing the past year's working, your Board regret that the result is not more satisfactory, the balance at the credit of Profit and Loss Account being only Tls 10,167.16, which amount they recommend to be carried forward to this year's working. Our inability to recommend a dividend is naturally a disappointment, but I need hardly point out to you, gentlemen, that the past year has been franght with many difficulties. Last season's 1909/10 cotton crop was a failure, and being a failure meant short supplies, prices gradually advancing throughout the year, we consequently had to contend with that ever-increasing evil "watered cotton." I say consequently, as it is only on a declining market that any redress can possibly be obtained, "take the fleet had been lured away, that our military it or leave it," being the motto of the Chinese dealers when you have purchased cotton below the price on the date of delivery. no satisfaction being obtainable while the Chinese. > London, January 25th. THE LATE BISHOP OF KOREA.

A scheme has been decided upon by which i will be possible to perpetuate the memory of the late Bishop Turner who died in Korea, and at the same time to give very material assistance to the work for which he was content to give his life. It will be recalled that at a conference of the Korean Church, held at Seoul last year. the opinion was expressed that a large central church had become a necessity for the Mission, a view supported by Bishop Montgomery, who recently visited the Diocese. The Central Committee now recommend that a fund shall be started as a Memorial to Bishop Turner, and that the Bishop Turner Memorial Charel shall be the first step towards the main building. The question of the site will be decided by the new Bishop.

A FAMOUS ORIENTAL COVERLET. The finely preserved English embroided co. verlet which the King has lent to the Victoria and Albert Museum from Windsor Castle is not without interest to the East. It dates from about 1700, and the design is in th Oriental style. In fact, the strong Oriental influenco is characteristic of the when the coverlet was worked and marks the extensive commerce in those days with the East. The coverlet is of linen, quilted in yellow silk and embreidered with coloured silks and silvergilt threads. A large medallion in the middle is filled with two flying phoenixes. The surrounding space has stems of flowers, and in each corner is a protesquely designed rampant monster. The broad border is filled with floral stems, diverging from the corners, and separated by flying phoenixes

JAPANESE TARIFF NEGOTIATIONS. It is stated on good authority that the tariff negotiations now proceeding in London between the British and Japanese Governments are making satisfactory progress. It is regarded as probable that they will result in the conclusion of an Angle-Japanese Commercial Treatyby which Japan will introduce certain tariff modifications in favour of Great Britain. The existing commercial treaty came into force twelve years ago and expires next July. The treaty with the United States has been extended for one year, but those with France, Germany and other countries also expire on July. It is pointed out that when these treaties were negotiated Japan sought to obtain the abolition of extra-territorality and so made concessions in other directions. The official statement in regard to the new treaties is that everything is proceeding harmoniously,

"COMPULSORY SERVICES" The second edition of Sir Ian Hamilton's work on "Compulsory Service" is highly important, in that it contains extracts from a of the invasion of these isles by a foreign Power. Sir Arthur Wilson takes the view that an invasion on even a moderate scale of 70,000 men is practically impossible. Ho says:-"Such an invasion could only take place when the Fleet was decoyed away, and ample warning of such an invasion must be given by the force of circumstances. Even given that enormous fleet of transports that would be required for the purpose

Wireless telegraphy wouldalso play its part. The statement has produced a deep impression in Berlin, where Sir' A. Wilson is regarded as the most eminent naval strategist in the world. A prominent German naval officer said it was absolutely certain that a German invasion of England was impossible, and hoped the article by its clearness and precision would result in putting a stop to the angry panic-mongers who insisted on misunder-

A MYSTERIOUS MARK. A line of investigation of ourious interest is now being pursued by the Scotland Yard authorities in regard to the mysterious mark found upon bo h cheeks of the man recently nurdered on Clapham Common. Most people have assumed the marks to represent an "S," which is the initial letter of the English and Polish words for Spy. It is now asserted that the mysterious mark is not a letter, but a brand which has been used as the sign of a traitor for long centuries in the Far East. The police are giving this aspect of the matter their attention. It seems certain now that the dead man knew a great deal at out Sidney Street, where the Anarchists were done to death. Altogether it is a curious business.

Mr. Selous will be unaccompanied by any white man and his task is by no means an easy one THE COLONIES AND THE CORONATION.

The Colonies are again pressing their claims for recognition at important imperial functions, and a desire is being conveyed to the King that the occasion of the Coronation should be seized to introduce into the ceremonial direct recognition of the great position now held towards the Crown by the over-sea Dominions. What the Colonies really want is some actual participation in the ceremonial and plans to this end are under consideration. The most feasible is the attendance of four leadin; representatives of the Empire-India, Canada, Australia and South Africa-side by side with the four Knights of the Garter, who have the duty of holding the canopy for the Sovereign's anointing. 🗎

This is the vessel which Lord Charles commanded at the bombardment of Alexandria with such daring as the draw from the Admiral commanding the signal, "Well done, Condor."

THE SUFFRAGETTES. There was a decided slump in Suffragette shares this week consequent on Mrs. Bil ington-Greig's scatking attack on the three militant leaders-Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Christabel Parkhurst and Mrs. Pethrick Lawrence. Mrs. Billington-Greig, who has been identified with both the Women's Social and Political Union and the Woman's Freedom League, now caustically attacks both societies, and her outburst is the culmination of internal troubles which have been browing for some time. She declares that the three militant leaders have captured the organisation and conduct it on autocratic lines; and that the suffragist militancy is not revolution, but the exploitation of the natural forces of sex-revolt for purposes of advertisement.

PARCEL POST FROM ENGLAND TO CHINA.

In connection with the parcel post to China, notice was given last month by the Postmaster-General of the revision of postage and extension of the service and insurance. In future the rates of postage on parcels to be conveyed by Snez and Hougkong, and to be delivered from Chinese post-offices, will be: Parcels not exceding 3lb. in weight, 2s.; between 3lb. and 71b., 3s.; and between 71b. and 11lb., 4s. Tho charge for parcels sent on the overland route by Italy will be a shilling more in each case than the above rates. The rates will cover conveyance to all Chinese post-offices served by steamer or railway, and insured parcels can accepted for many of these offices. Parcels destined for Chineso post-offices not mentioned in the Post Office list must not exceed 6lb. in weight, and will be subject to a charge payable by the addresses for onward conveyance beyond the limits of conv yance by steamer or railway. They cannot be insured.

THE SHANGHAI PERJURY CHARGE.

FURTHER EXAMINATION OF

THE ACCUSED. Continuing the report of the hearing of the chargo brought at Shanghai against Isaac

Raymond Michael, we make the following ex-tracts from the proceedings on the 15th inst.:— Witness said he was unable to produce one contract with Somekh and one with Kadoorie. Mr. Oppe (prosecuting solicitor)—You have made a complaint that the Stock Exchange asked you to sign a bankruptcy notice against Carmichael?—Yes. Mr. Oppe—Now were not you asked by the Cathay Trust to sign that notice!—The Exchange and the Cathay Trust.

Mr. Oppe—When you were asked first by the Cathay Trust, didn't you say that if the Stock Exchange asked you you would reply?— I said I was an agent for the committee.

Mr. Oppe—The committee asked you and you said that if they would withdraw your suspension you would consider the matter?—Yes. Mr. Oppe-And that is how the Stock Exchange came into the matter?-No. I wanted to know about my suspension,

Mr. Oppe-You wanted to make a bargain? -Bargain, no. They suspended me without any reason. The committee, without consulting the members, went into the room and in less than half an hour handed me my suspension. Mr. Oppe-Don't you know you were asked to produce your books to the committee and you refused to do so?—Seven of us refused. One party-I don't want to mention his name, he is in the employ of the committee - gave up his books, but six refused to hand over their books. Mr. Douglas (in re-examination) - Did other members of the Exchange make losses in March? -Yes, heavy losses. Mr. Douglas - As heavy as yours? - That I cannot tell, but they were losses. Mr. Douglas-They are still in the Exchange are they not ?-- Yes. Mr. Douglas-And some people made heavy losses for June? - Yes, very heavy, too. Mr. Douglas-And they are still in the Exchange !- Yes. Mr. Douglas - And made losses in September, too?-Yes, they are all insolvent, the Exchange is insolvent. By my action they were afraid I would report them to Hongkong under the Hongkong Ordinance for the way they had deceived the Government. They only had power to borrow a few hundred or thousand teals for the building, and they immediately become bankrupt by borrowing a million and a half, and evidence that you feel that in being saddled with this debt it was not what you intended and not alcohol. In former days it was reckoned among what you meant? - No, I didn't mean it.

Mr. Oppe-They did ask for an explanation, and you said it was a clerical error. Mr. Douglas said he proposed to call Mr. Jones and Mr. Somekh, and to ask a few questions of Mr. Read, the presecutor. Mr. Kadoorie, he understood, was not here (in Shanghai).

THE PORTUGUESE ROYAL FAMILY

KING MANOEL'S POSITION.

With reference to the declaration of the Portuguese Minister for Foreign Affairs concerning the "toleration and generosity" displayed by the Republic towards the Royal Family, Reuter's Agency is requested to state, on the highest Portuguese authority, that Queen Maria Pia's dowry was settled in an Act approved by the Portuguese and Italian Chambers King Dom Luiz, and is an international agreement binding upon whatever Government may be in power in Lisbon. tute his personal property, and there can therefore be no question of any display of "toleration and generosity" by the Republican Government. With regard to the future, King Mancel ed of property which is undeniably his by law.

KAISER ON TEMPERANCE.

BRITISH FLEET'S EXAMPLE.

A Berlin temperance organ circulates the following as the text of that part of the Emperor's speech to the Murwik naval cadets which dealt with the liquor question :

"One.more piece of advice I will give you on your way, on a question the importance of which for my people lies very close to my heart. It is the question of alcohol and drinking. know quite well that pleasure in drinking is an oldinheritance of the Germanic people. Never-theless, we must by self-discipline free ourselves in every respect from this evil. can assure you that in my twenty-two years saddled seven of us with this mill-stone around of government it has been my experience that a great number of the crimes Mr. Douglas - Do I understand from your which were laid before me for decision were to be nine-tenths ascribed to the consequences of young men, particularly smart and dashing, to be Mr. Douglas-It was not your intention able to drink and carry a large quantity. As a young officer I had an opportunity of seeing examples of this, though I never followed them.

Those are obsolete views which were all very well for the Thirty Years' War, but don't do to-day. Quite apart from the consequences which I need not further dwell upon, I should you received first, the buying or the selling like specially to draw your attention to one point which concerns your future career. As you will His Worship—Can you explain how Mr. notice youselves, in the course of Somekh's name was left out of the settlement term on board, service in my schedule?—It was on the 28th June, in the has attained a degree of intensity evening. DR. MORRISON ON CHINA.

The London Magazine for February contains an interview with Dr. G. E. Morrison, of Peking, who is now in London. Dr. Morrison spoke with emphasis of the great changes that are taking place in China. The " Westernization of this great people," he said, "cannot but affect the whole world." But to believed the effect would be for good. "New China comes, not as a menace to the West, but as a peaceful participator in world progress." In the course of the interview Dr. Morrison dwelt on the striking contrast between the Peking of to-day and the Peking of ten. years ago. He described the services rendered by the railways not only in opening up the country and in breaking down the prejudice against foreigners, but in strengthening the Central Government and in creating a before her Majesty's marriage with the late new national feeling. He was confident that the coming of constitutional government would make for administrative reform. . " Corruption cannot continue unchecked when exposed to the At to King Manoel, his Majesty has so far light of publicity." He had no doubt of the received no sums except those derived from the sincerity of the Chinese Government in its deestates of the House of Braganza, which consti- sire to suppress the cultivation of the poppy and to stamp out the spium evil, and had nothing but good to say of the missionaries. and encouragement.

AFFAIRS IN PORTUGAL. NO WAY TO GOVERN.

A Pyrrhic victory, says the Daily Mail, has been won by the forces-if they may be called "forces"-of law and order in Portugal, The railway strike has come to an end. The railway strike, however, has not come to an end because those who defied unjustifiably the convenience and necessity of the country have been brought to reason by some stern authority. The railway strike has come to an end-at all events, to a partial end-because the employers have surrendered to the strikers. The men have not been starved or awed into submission or fair compromise. Their extravagant demands have been granted. And so tranquility has been restored to the swaying Republic of Portugal. This surrender to the strikers is ominous enough. But it is not the whole of the story. Encouraged by the easy triumph of the malcontents, and delighted, we may assume, by the kind and genial assurances of their "friend and comrade," the Minister of the Interior in the Cabinet of poetasters and professors, other workers are being bitten by this happy notion of striking. The example of Paris is being followed in Lisbon, where the gas and electric light workers have "come out." The cork industry is threatened with paralysis. A general strike is being spoken of with manful and hearty enthusiasm. Those are, of course, the first fruits of that masterpiece of republican legislation, the right to strike, and the inevitable consequence of the unopposed return of the railwaymen to such employment as sooms good to them. More significant, perhaps, is the attitude of the public. That attitude seems to have been based on the attitude of the Government. Exasperated by the results of the railway strike, the public showed all the symptoms would be thrown on the strikers. No sooner, however, was the victory of the strikers won than it was cheered to the echo by those who had shown all the signs of a bitter hostility to this exarchical cause Like Government, like people. Portugal is in ferment, and there is nowhere any settled will or any power to enforce it. That is, of course, the issue of a change of names, but not of spirit, in the Government of a country which, distracted by corruption and incompetence, hoped in the exchange of monarchy for republic to find a new heaven on an old earth. The Government do not know where to turn. The people do not know where to turn. Portugal is being dissolved in the mists of indecision, One thing alone seems sure, and that is chaos. By the surrender which has "saved the situation" these well-meaning but impotent Ministers have brewed new trouble for themselves and for the country. They have encouraged an epidemic of strikes, They have undermined the already tottering sense of law and order—and the worst of their troubles are still ahead of them. It is impossible to believe that any progress can be made on these flabby lines. But if Portugal were to sink into a condition of entirely disordered chaos it would be impossible for civilised Europe. to tolerate a neighbour in so woeful a state. The sands are running out for Senhor Braga

PRESENTATION TO MR. W. H. COOKE.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Shipping held at Merchants' Hall, St. Mary Are, a presentation of silver plate was made to Mr. W. H. Cooke, who is retiring from the office of secretary after thirty years' service. Letters of regret for absence were received from Lord

Inverelyde, Lord Pirrie, and others. Sir Edward Hain, the president of the Chamber, said that the retirement of Mr. Cooke after thirty years of faithful service marked the severance of a very long and honourable connection, and, though the Chamber would without doubt extend in the future its sphere of usefulness and influence, in the minds of the older members at least it would never seem quite the same place in Mr. Cooke's absence. When they found it impossible to urge further objec-tions against Mr. Cooke's decision it was felt that he ought not to be allowed to pass into retirement without receiving from the shipping community some taken of their appreciation of his many valuable services, and a sufficient sum had been received to enable them to present to Mr. Cooke that very hausdome piece of silver plate on which had been inscribed some testimony of the warm regard they had for him, To Mrs. Cooke they further contured to give a ring as a memento of the occasion. He wished them both every happiness and long life. Mr. F. Shadforth Watts (chairman of the General Shipowners' Society and of the Shipowners' Parliamentary Committee), Mr. C. E. Bryghtman (chairman of the Decumentary Committee), and Mr. Pombroke also spoke highly of Mr. Cooke's work, reference being specially made to his services in connection with the Port of London

After the presentation had been made by Mr. T. L. Devitt (president of the Shipping Federation), Mr. Cooke assured the Chamber, on the part of Mrs. Cooke and himself, that they were deeply grateful. In 1880, when he first entered the City as secretary of the General Shipowners' Society, what struck him most was the entire absence of any unanimity among the shipowners of the various ports. London pulled one way, Liverpool another, the Clyde a third, and the North-East Coast a fourth. But that was now all over, and when the Shipowners' Parliamentary Committee spoke on Parliamentary matters it spoke with full authority as representing nine-tenths of the merchant shipping tonnage of the United Kingdom. Thirty years ago shipowners were taunted, with some justice, with being a rope of sand; now that rope was fast becoming, if it had not already Mrs Amold & children become, a rope of steel. In the future he Mr. J. I. Andrew felt there was a real danger to their interests in the growing tendency of modern legislation to bureaucracy. One of the inevitable results of the constant interference of the State with the affairs of the individual was the increasing number of officials who had to be maintained by the State. No doubt many of the officials were men of high character, and zealous in their work, but they exercised power without knowledge, they worked in the dark, and the reason for their ex cathedra decisions were unknown to those who, were chiefly affected -by them.

THE VALUE OF TRAVEL.

For many reasons foreign travel may, says the Builder, fail to help the architect and to raise the standard of his work; that does not justify the contention that it is injurious in itself, but Mr. W. E. Clarko only to the effect that it is not in its proper Mr. A. S. Cobden place in an educational scheme. What its place Mr. G. E. Cole is depends to a large extent on the character of Mr. E. H. Colleyshuw the student; with one it may come earlier than Miss N. Compton with another, but it will be safe to say that it is better late than early. Far more will be Mr & M s H Da las gathered by one who has had a long and thorough course in the principles of design than by one who, having had little bir Frank Davis: training in this respect, may devote his Mr W. C. Drew attention to attractive subjects for his pencil, Mr P. G. Eastwick regardless of whether they advance his know- Mr & Mrs Ebner · ledge of architectural composition and expres- Mr. and : re. H. C. sion. The experienced designer will get nothing but good from the study of buildings whether Mr H. G. Ellis they be those of medieval brance, classic Cathoy; Mr P. Enticknop he will not be distracted by the unaccustomed Mr W. N. Finlayson detail and curiosities of construction, but will lelve amid these to recover the spirit and intention of the original designer. To say that such studies as these do not tend to fit a man for work in any age or in any material only proves a lack of appreciation of the broad idealism which the problems of architecture demand for their satisfactory solution. Our view may by summed up as follows: Travel and see as much as possible, Mr S. J. Green but what you see study thoroughly and analyse Miss W. M. Green rather than depict. Postpone your grand tour Mr C. V. Green as long as possible, and first reach as high a Mr & Mrs Greenhaum standard as time and ability permit in the art of design,

DUTCH WARSHIPS AND TROOPS AT RHIO.

SULTAN AND HEIR-APPARENT DEPOSED.

Batavia, February 11. The Gazette of the Netherlands India Government contains the following official statement:-The Sultan of Rhio, though repeatedly warned by the Government, has refused to fulfil his obligation and has often decided the Dutch flag. He has often plotted with a party who is hostile to the Government, to which party both he and the Heir-apparent are bound by oath, Therefore the Sultan and the Heir-apparent are deposéd.

According to information that reached Singapore yesterday negotiations have been going | on for some live or six months between the Gov. ernment of the Notherlands Indies and the Sultan of Rhio which would have had practically Dr. & Mrs Kelly the same effect as has been reached by the de- Mr A. Kopp position of the latter.

The Dutch authorities presented to the Sultan Mr & Mrs W. D. Kraft for signature a new treaty by which they would. Mr G. H. Langmole take all the remaining powers of administration Miss Langton out of the hands of the Saltan and enforce his retiral on a penson. The Sultan, supported Dr. and Mrs Anderson by a strong native party, declined the terms of and children the treaty and refused to sign it. He object in Yr & Mrs E. E. Aucott the first place to giving up any of his rights, Dr Belilios and, even in the event of his doing so he con- Mr M. P. Beattie sidered that the proposed pension would be Miss Brandt

Having failed to obtain the acquiescence of the Sultan the Dutch Government has now attained its end by a different means.—Straits | Niss R. Chrystal
